

CHURCH AND STATE WORK IN FULL ACCORD TO RELIEVE SUFFERING

Pope Pius Confers With Civil Officials Upon Measures to be Taken.

Appeals Made to Northern Cities to Care for Refugees— Southern Italy Unable to Care for Them—Additional Horror Caused by New Shocks—Tales of Brigandage —Acknowledgement of American Contributions by Italian Red Cross.

(Special from United Press.)
Palermo, Jan. 5.—Twenty-four warships, 20,000 troops and 2,000 doctors and red cross workers are now in the quake zone. Others are arriving hourly.
Although there are no longer any persons found alive in the ruins, the condition of hundreds of survivors is still desperate. Few of those rescued within the last two days have survived their frightful suffering. A large per cent. of those upon whom it is necessary to operate, particularly in the case of amputation, do not survive the operations, owing to their fearfully weakened condition.
The rescuers to-day began using a carbolic acid solution on the ruins where the stench is unbearable.
The work of building temporary bar-acks at Reggio will begin within two days. Materials are being rushed to completion. The natives are anxious to join in the work for the mental relief that it will afford.
The morale of the natives is rapidly improving and General Mazzi reports that he has the situation well in hand.
The uninjured survivors at last appear to have emerged from their stupor and for the first time are rendering valuable aid in the work of rescue. General Mazzi has established a complete military cordon around Messina.
Rome, Jan. 5.—A rapprochement between the Vatican and Quirinal is believed to-day to be probable in the near future as a result of the note of brotherhood that the pope sounded throughout all Italy by the quake's staggering blow. There is an unmistakable feeling in Rome that the Liberal element in the future will be should wipe out the differences that have separated them in the past. Already the lasting political effect of such an accord is being widely commented upon.
It is recognized that the Pope took the first step toward healing the breach yesterday when he passed the Basilica of St. Peter. By so doing he actually "quitted" the Vatican grounds and passed beyond the limits which the law throws around him though he did not in reality set foot on alien territory. The Pope and Mgr.
Mistrali, the Papal representative, were again in conference to-day with Signor Nathan, Mayor of Rome, and other government officials. Nathan is other sign of the lessening of the gap between church and state. Signor Nathan is a bitter anti-Catholic as are several of those who are now working in unison with the Pope.
Appeals were made to-day to the northern cities of Italy to throw open their doors to the quake refugees. The possibility of Naples, Rome, Palermo and the other southern cities caring for all the victims is now apparent. Thirty thousand survivors are now in Naples and the facilities there are so overtaxed that the work can not be done as carefully as it should be.
The situation in Rome is almost as bad and will be quite so unless relief from other cities is forthcoming immediately. Bologna has volunteered to care for 300 of the sufferers. It is anxious to receive the refugees and from the quake zone to Bologna, Florence, Genoa and Milan.

HUNDREDS VIEW MITCHELL'S BODY

COUNTRYMEN PROVIDED ELAB-ORATE FUNERAL FOR MAN WHO DIED OF STAB
WOUND.

The remains of John Mitchell, who died at the Bridgeport Hospital Sunday as the result of a stab wound in the head received on Christmas eve on Pembroke street were taken to Sadler's hall, 144 Willard street yesterday where they were viewed by hundreds of the foreign born population of the vicinity. The funeral took place this morning from the Roman Catholic church on Church street. The murdered man had few acquaintances here and remains will receive as much attention as if he was among his friends and relatives in his native land.
The murder has caused much excitement among the Hungarian and Bohemian residents of the East side and the funeral services were largely attended.

FIFTEEN FIREMEN OVERCOME BY FUMES

Fire in Springfield Grocery Sends Twelve to Hospital in Serious Condition.

(Special from United Press.)
Springfield, Mass., Jan. 5.—Fifteen firemen were overcome by fumes of ammonia released from the refrigerat-ing plant by a fire in the Mohican Company's grocery and meat store on Bridge street this morning. Eleven firemen were first overcome, and after they had been removed to hospitals, the flames broke out afresh and four more men fell unconscious and were taken out. Of those injured, twelve are seriously hurt and three revived and returned to work. The fire loss was small.
—Fire was discovered shortly before 6 o'clock this morning in a closet at the rear of the meat market of William Rader, 626 Pembroke street. An alarm was sounded from box 612. The fire was extinguished with a hand chemical.

GRILLING CROSS- EXAMINATION OF JENKINS HAINS

Prosecuting Attorney Sever- al Times Confuses Wit- ness and He Denies Previous State- ments.

But on the Whole Accused Made a Good Witness in His Own Behalf—End of the Case Will Come Soon.

(Special from United Press.) Flushing, Jan. 5.—Primed with a very lengthy typewritten list of questions and a copy of the story Thorne-ton Hains told in his own defense yesterday, District Attorney Darrin questioned the witness for two hours and fifteen minutes with very great detail. Hains bore it well and gave his answers in splendid shape for an hour and three-quarters and then the strain began to show. He lost his temper a couple of times and then as question after question was fired at him he began to contradict himself.
Flushing, Jan. 5.—Plainly nerved to face the most severe cross-examination which he had been warned would consume the entire day, Thorne-ton Hains resumed the witness chair in his own behalf to-day. His story of the killing of William E.
Annis by Captain Peter C. Hains, on the float at the Bayside Yacht Club August 15, was nearly completed last night and McIntyre said he would finish within half an hour.
Hains took the stand once took up his task of having Thorne-ton close up the loose ends of his story as he left the last night.
McIntyre took up the question of the "Dear Billie" letter. "Tell us what you know about that letter?" asked Attorney McIntyre. "I received that letter a few minutes after Mrs. Hains made her statement," Hains replied.
Downstairs and asked, "Tornie, will you mail a letter for me?" I said I would.
She handed the letter to me and as she did so the captain stepped out of my hand and when he got out of the house he opened and read it, I reading it over his shoulder. He became much excited over it and I took it away from him."
"When you reached the yacht club did you at any time ask Burdell, Funke, Storms or Ellison where Annis was?"
This ended the direct examination and cross-examination was begun.
"What hour of the night of May 31 was it when your brother broke into your home at Bay Ridge?" "Nearly midnight," "Tell us how he acted when he broke in?" The witness then repeated his story of the captain breaking into the house and acting in an excited manner. For half an hour led the witness through the mazes of his direct testimony without getting any important alternative than the original story.
In the middle of the early cross-examination Mrs. W. E. Annis came into the court room and was escorted to a seat inside the rail where she sat with dressed lips intently regarding the witness.
Hains did well under cross-examination. He leaned well forward in his chair, appeared to be getting the questions that were being framed by Prosecutor Darrin. Darrin questioned the witness at length regarding the "Dear Billie" letter. He declared he took the letter because he was asked to do so and made no attempt to keep the captain from reading it because he saw that it was addressed to Annis. He knew from its contents that Annis was expected at that moment and he gave his brother a heavy dose of bromide to keep him from getting up early and going back to Port Hamilton.
"You did not want your brother to see Annis, is that right?" demanded Darrin. "My brother had just learned Annis was responsible for his wife's infidelity."
Yes, in what did you interfere for?" "I was afraid that if my brother came suddenly upon Annis that it would drive him mad."
"You were not afraid that it would cause your brother to go mad?"
"No, he was in no condition to do anyone bodily harm." The peculiar manner in which Darrin conducted the cross-examination enabled Thorne-ton to get into the record all the testimony he gave in detail yesterday. Darrin fared well when he took up the incident of the meeting with Annis at Herald Square. He said Thorne-ton Hains to state positively that at that time Annis was not mentioned by his brother and that was a statement made by him then. "When you say now that he did not speak, did you not tell the jury yesterday that he spoke. Did you not say, 'He took me into the store and he turned pointed with his finger at the man who was passing and said, 'There he goes, that's him, that's him—Annis.'" Did you not say so to the jury?"
"No," the witness was plainly confused and for a second was confused. "I simply don't remember," he said, taking refuge behind the conventional excuse.
Darrin pounded home this lapse of memory, finally getting the witness to admit that he was not sure just what he had said.
Flushed with this success Darrin soon scored another, getting the witness confused in his account of a motor trip on July 26. Yesterday he declared that he had run into a fishing boat through the captain checking the engine to soon. To-day he declared he did not run into the boat and he turned the fishing was. "Why did you tell one thing to-day and yesterday another?" demanded Darrin. "I don't know and what's more, I don't intend to," Hains snapped the witness. "I don't want to trap you. I want you to tell the truth, that's all I want," declared the prosecuting attorney.
Darrin and the witness fenced at length. Finally when the witness entered into a lengthy explanation Dar-rin checked him with, "Answer these questions as I put them. I don't want any of your explanations." "Of course you don't. You only want what you want and trying to tell the truth as well as I can. But you don't want the truth."

WARMEST DECEMBER IN 36 YEARS

INTERESTING STUDY OF WEATH-ER CONDITIONS COMPILED BY WEATHER OBSERVER JEN-NINGS.—RECORD FOR 1908.

December, 1908, was the warmest twelfth month this city has experienced in 36 years. The mean temperature for the month was 34 while the average for the past 36 years was 32 degrees. According to the reports of William Jennings, the weather observer, the warmest day was December 1, when the thermometer registered 67 and the coldest day was the 24th when the mercury dropped down to eleven.
The greatest daily range of the mercury was the second when the changes in the weather made the mercury cover 30 degrees. The least daily range was on the 15th when the mercury precipitation was 3 degrees.
The total precipitation (snow and rain) was 3.73 inches. The greatest precipitation in any 24 hours was 1.68 on the 7th of the month. The total snowfall was 6.5 inches. There were 30 days in the month during which there was 1 inch or more precipitation.
There were 12 clear days; 6 partly cloudy; and 12 cloudy. The prevailing wind direction for the month was west.
In a general summary of the weather for 1908 Jennings calls attention to this city having less snow and rain during that period than it has had any year for the past 15 years. Notwithstanding the low precipitation there were 165 rain-days or days upon which there was .01 inch or more precipitation.
July 6th was the hottest day when the thermometer registered 95.
The coldest day was February 5th when the mercury registered 1 degree above zero. The mean temperature for the year was 51.5.
Total precipitation for the year 44.21 inches and the average for the past 15 years was 50 inches. Total snowfall was 30 inches and the average for 15 years was 44 inches. There were 14 clear days, 122 partly cloudy and 90 cloudy. The prevailing wind direction was northwest.
DANBURY STORE BURNED.
(Special from United Press.) Danbury, Jan. 5.—Fire starting from an overturned candle in the rear of the store where it had been used in ascertaining the condition of eggs to-day burned out the New York Cash Grocery store. The store loss was about $2,000 and the building $5,000.

PRACTICAL EXERCISE IN COMPOSITION

Series Of Letters Written By Pupils of Cockburn High School of Leeds, England.

REPLIES TO PUPILS OF WALTERSVILLE SCHOOL, THIS CITY

Pupils Themselves Describe Features of Industrial Training Carried Out in One of The Biggest English
Manufacturing Centres—Why the Letters Were Written.

Bridgeport has an excellent public school system and one of which it may be justly proud and which compares favorably with the systems of practically every city of its size in this country and probably with those of other countries. This is due largely to the work of the board of Education which supervises it, to the efficient Supt. of Schools, Dr. Deane, to the principals of the various school buildings, but principally to the work of the large and efficient corps of teachers, most of whom are graduates of the city's own normal school conducted under the management of the board of Education. Taking pride as we do in the excellence of our schools it is well to remember, however, that other cities of the world have schools of which they are justly proud and some features of which might be advantageously copied in our local system. One of these features which just warrants attention in this city is industrial training.
At a recent meeting of the board of Education it was proposed to appropriate the sum of $1,200 for the purpose of inaugurating this training, at first in a small way, and later to extend it if found practical and advantageous. In this connection it is interesting to note what is being done in other places, and the Farmer is enabled to give its readers a series of letters written by pupils of the Cockburn High School of Leeds, England, where industrial training is a part of

CAUCUS TONIGHT ON SPEAKERSHIP BANKS IN LEAD

Malone Most Formidable Rival; Knight is Still in Race.

(Special from United Press.)
Hartford, Jan. 5.—Politicians began arriving here before noon today for the caucuses tonight before the preliminary convening of the State Legislature, for the inauguration of Governor-elect Lilley, and although the big Senatorship fight was much talked of, the three smaller fights to be settled in the gatherings tonight's rally held the center of the stage.
The races are for the president pro-tem of the Senate, Speakership of the House, and assistant clerkship of the House. The Speakership contest was doubtless the most important of the amount of pyrotechnics because of the attack by the perennially active ministers of Fairfield county on Judge E. S.
Banks, and the Judge's hot come-backs. William J. Malone of Bristol is considered Banks' most formidable contestant for the Speakership.
Although George S. Knight of Salisbury is still in the fight, the chances for the election of Judge Banks.
For president pro-tem of the Senate, Senators Blakeslee of New Haven and Brooks of Torrington have been waging a calm and dignified contest with neither apparently much in the lead. The office is important this year because of the new provision that its incumbent shall appoint the Senate committees.
The assistant clerkship of the House, J. Olin Howe and Sabin Russell have been making a thorough canvass, and from recent statements in papers throughout the State it would appear that Howe is the lead. His friends today claimed for him at least 125 of the 205 votes. There are other contestants for minor positions and a good many races among several prominent clergymen for chaplain of the Senate and House, all of which will be settled tonight.
After the caucuses the Governor-elect will receive at the legislative mansions.

PIERCE'S CASE IS CONTINUED

The case of Charles H. Pierce, proprietor of the Hotel Vendome at Crescent avenue and western street, was continued until the 11th in the city court this morning. Pierce is charged with selling liquor without a license. The police have been watching the place for some time but were unable to get evidence. Two of the law enforcement detectives, however, gained admittance and succeeded in buying a bottle of whiskey. The evidence was placed before Liquor Prosecutor Merritt who issued a warrant for Pierce's arrest and a search warrant for the hotel. Sgt. Hazel conducted a raid Saturday night and found a barrel of whiskey, a barrel of beer, several jugs of liquor and a lonesome bottle of Rhine wine. Al Poland furnished a bond of $150 when Pierce appeared at the police station in answer to the warrant. The same bond was continued in the city court this morning. The case against the seized liquors will also be tried out on the 11th. Attorney F. A. Bartlett appears for Pierce in both cases.

GOVERNMENT WILL RETRY STANDARD CASE

(Special from United Press.)
Washington, Jan. 5.—Attorney General Bonaparte announced to-day that the government would re-try the Standard Oil case, made famous by the Landis $28,000,000 fine and in which the Supreme Court of the United States yesterday refused to review the action of the court of appeals in remanding it for a new trial.

NEW HEAD OF ST. VINCENT'S WAS AN ARMY NURSE

As a Volunteer She Cared for Fever Stricken Sol- diers of Spanish- American War.

Succeeds Sister Laura, Who Has Been Executive Head of the Hospital Since Its Founding Three Years Ago—Receives Merited Promotion.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Hartford, Jan. 5.—Judge Elmore S.
Banks of Fairfield, will be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives of Connecticut. The caucus which will be held tonight will determine the question and Banks will have not less than 150 votes out of 205 which is the total vote of the Republican membership of the House. As it requires only 103 votes to make a choice it can be seen from the above figures which are to be relied upon that Banks is in no danger.
Judge William J. Malone of Bristol is on the spot and while he professes confidence in the outcome it is admitted by those who fought for and with him that he cannot win.
BLAKESLEE TO WITHDRAW.
The expected contest for the chairmanship of the Senate has petered out.
Senator Isaac Brooks of Torrington, will be chosen without opposition, as Senator Blakeslee of New Haven, his only avowed opponent, has decided not to have his name go before the caucus.
The most important of the American Association and Eastern League regarding the request for classification Attorney Killelea and Secretary J. Jer-fery, acting for the two leagues, have drawn up the demands in writing and presented them to the commission for confirmation.
The commission yesterday labored for an hour on the question as to withdrawal of the American Association and Eastern League will be put into a special classification among the baseball teams of the country. No decision was rendered in the hearing of the testimony for both sides transacted a great deal of business.
The most important of which was the re-instatement of Player William Scer-ring who has applied twice before for reinstatement and was refused. This time being fined $200 and the club that purchased him must pay $200 to the Cleveland team to whom Scerring was indebted to that amount. Scerring is a contract jumper. The application for reinstatement of Player William Scer-ring of the Tri-State league but failing of the Bristol and later the Hartford teams in this league was refused. Resisting jumped to the Brooklyn team to which he was drafted from Hartford.
Players Freeman, Johnson, Jesse Tannelli and Keeley, all members of the Washington club of the American league were reinstated and fined $25 each. However $150 of each man's sentence was suspended. These men were charged with playing last fall with a Chicago outlaw club.

JESSELL'S BIRDS ARE PRIZE WINNERS

Arthur E. Jessell, of 56 Asylum street, this city, and a member of the Bridgeport Poultry Association, had birds on exhibition at the Meriden Poultry show in Meriden last week, and out of 22 entries won twenty-eight ribbons; twelve first, six second, three thirds, and seven specials. He also received two silver cups, one for white Cochins and one for golden Wyandottes.
The birds are now being exhibited at the Middletown Poultry show this week and will be shown at the Bridgeport Poultry show in the Lincoln building next week.

HOW CAPT. ERB MET HIS DEATH

Mrs. Beisel Gives Dramatic Recital of Shooting upon Witness Stand.

(Special from United Press.)
Media, Pa., Jan. 5.—A mid profound silence Mrs. Katherine Beisel to-day testified in the killing of Captain J. Clayton Erb for which she and her sister, Mrs. Erb, are being tried on the joint charge of murder.
Mrs. Beisel showed plainly the strain of the ordeal upon her face as the witness stand at the opening of the court. As her recital approached the climax of the tragedy her voice shook and tears streamed down her cheeks.
She heard Erb quarrelling with her sister, she said, and rushed out to protect her. She saw Erb standing in the hallway near the bathroom door with a revolver in his hand and she "I'll kill you," he cried, and as he advanced I sprang at him. We clinched and after a fightful struggle I found I had the revolver. I pulled the trigger and it kept on shooting."
Mrs. Beisel sat upright in her chair, shot, and she whispered, almost inaudibly, "and then all grew dark." Mrs. Beisel fell back in her chair and covered her face with her hands.

THE NOTORIOUS MORASKI GANG

The case against Stephen Petrosky, charged with assault upon William Kosloski, will be tried in the city court to-morrow. Prosecuting Attorney DeLaney is preparing the case. All of the other members of the Moraski gang who have been arrested for the assault, have employed counsel but Petrosky so far has not been represented. He has been confined since his arrest. The assault took place on Dec. 15 and was the work of this notorious gang which has terrorized the West end for months. Kosloski was beaten in a terrible manner and his eye was gouged out. John Moraski and his brother-in-law, Mike Maltz, were tried and convicted in the city court and the appealed cases will come up in the Superior court.
Kosloski was badly injured in the assault during which one of the members of the gang inserted his finger in Kosloski's eye and the member and injured the eyeball. It was feared he would lose the eye. He has recovered however, but the eyelid will never return to its original position.
He will always be disfigured. The Moraskis have employed Attorney Clitus H. King to represent them. Attorney Greenstein has withdrawn from the case. The Prosecuting Attorney is determined to break up the gang and release the West end from their domination.

BANKS FOR SPEAKER OF HOUSE BROOKS FOR SENATE PRESIDENT

Fairfield Judge Will Have a Walk Over in His Contest for the Speakership—Blakeslee Withdrew from Senate Contest.

JUDGE PULLMAN ON MATRIMONIAL OBLIGATIONS

Troubles of Youthful Couple Subject of Comment in the City Court—Don't Rush into Matrimony Until You Are Prepared to Support a Wife.

The untoward results of "infant marriage" were ventilated in the city court this morning when the case of Irving Sherwood, charged with non-support, was tried. Mrs. Sherwood, a petite little woman of 18, accused her husband of neglecting her and refusing to provide for her. The couple were married last May and since that time the husband has been away most of the time. In fact he has not lived with his wife more than a month. Mrs.
Sherwood has lived with Mr. Sherwood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J.
Sherwood of 583 Central avenue. She has taken care of Mrs. Sherwood who is an invalid and is much liked by her husband's parents. The young man says he is 19 years old but the officials believe he is only eighteen. Mrs.
Sherwood claims that there is another girl in the case and that her husband has been away in New Haven for several months. He returned only a month ago. Last Saturday he struck her and she made a complaint. Irving took the stand in his own defense and testified that he was supporting her. He was charged with non-support against a serious charge.

When Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilder asked him if he did not know that he was obliged to support his wife he answered, "Perhaps so." Judge Pullman read the young man a lecture which he will not forget for a while. The Judge said: "You will be obliged to support your wife. You were too young and very foolish to get married when you did. You had no right to take upon yourself obligations which you could not carry out." The Judge further commented on the duties of a married man and finally discharged the accused in charge of Probation Officer Canfield. The Judge thought that the differences between the couple were not serious but that and that he was responsible for the support of his wife until divorced from her.
